

Restaurants at the Broadmoor

When the Broadmoor opened in 1929 — and for 62 years afterwards — the space we now know as the Commons was home to a series of restaurants and the scene of countless dinners, banquets, balls, cabarets, and dinner parties.

This exhibit tells their story.

The Broadmoor Cafe, 1929-1930

The first restaurant at the Broadmoor, the Broadmoor Cafe advertised “A tempting menu of choices deliciously prepared” in a “Dining Room of Distinction.”

Managed and operated by the proprietor of the Woodley Park Cafe in nearby Woodley Towers, the Broadmoor Cafe operated less than a year, closing in the spring of 1930.
